Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Is There a Hell?: An Inquiry and an Answer If you will open your atlas at the map of Africa, you will observe, at the westward of the Nile River and Tanganyika Lake, an extensive tract of country marked Unexplored. The map shows no mountains, no rivers, no lakes, simply because no one knows what is there. It is unexplored But Stanley is on his way back to America. If, on his arrival, he should announce that, in the centre of that hitherto unknown territory, he had discovered a great lake, to which, on account of its dismal surroundings, he had given some name of fearful omen, - if such an announcement should be made by him, two things would certainly follow.
